Now that I'm reading it more carefully, the line in the letter that I don't understand (and maybe this is what you were puzzling over too) is at end of 3rd bullet - "under the auspices of a Delta agency such as the Delta Conservancy".

And then also on page 3 "The State and the Delta counties should jointly develop Delta standards...".

Both of these suggest taking authority away from the State Board, or somehow sharing the role of developing standards. For CWA standards at least, there's issues with that (which my vacationing attn could elaborate on) having to do with the Board being the agency designated to implement CWA. I'm just not sure what the counties are trying to get with those suggestions.
